BASE BALL STATUE PLAN IS PRAISED

Veteran Manager Commends
Star Editorial on Memorial in Potomac Park.

To the Editor of The Star:

Your editorial in last Sunday's Star commenting on the proposed base ball monument that is to be erected by the American League in Potomac Park, whereon will be inscribed from year to year the names of great exponents of America's national game, is timely and commendable. The ancient Greeks paid honors to the heroes of their Olympian games that gave inspiration afterward to athletes in all the civilized nations of Europe. Washington, the capital of our great nation, is the proper place for its erection.

It is not known by all Washingtonians, but it should be known not only by them, but by all Americans, that it was Washington's patriotism and energy that carried the skill and glamour of the game to the westward as Chicago in 1867 and planted the seed of the game in all the cities of the middle west. By the tour of the great Nationals of Washington of that year, whose players were clerks in the different departments of the capital, but men of the highest baseball skill, the game became national throughout the country. The west at that time had clubs of the game of very crude ability, while the east was the section that gave birth to the game and had teams of great ability for those times. The Nationals being one of them.

The supporters of the Washington team were among the most prominent citizens of the capital—the late Senator Arthur P. Gorman being one of the supporters. The Nationals were run on a strictly amateur basis. To advance the skill and beautiful points of the game the supporters of the capital team planned the tour to the west. It may be a revelation and stagger the money grabbers of the game throughout the country today to know that the officers of the Nationals in making this tour to the western cities refused any and all guarantees, gate money or any money consideration to pay the expenses of the trip, but insisted that all the expenses of the club should be borne by the backers of the team.

In my late visit to Europe, namely, France, Belgium, England and Wales, in the interest of our national game, I noticed that it has got such a hold on the people that leagues have already started up in both England and Wales. The publicity the game has got with the impression made by the tour of the world by the Chicago White Sox and New York Giants in 1914, with renewed interest, my going over to Europe in the interest of our game, has brought this all about. It must be added also that our soldiers, while in France, had sowed the seeds of the game.

On account of my former visit as director of the world's tour of the Chicago White Sox and New York Giants, I was received royally by the supporters of the game in Paris, London and Brussels. Of course, the American people over there took the initiative in welcoming me, in the interest of the game, to those countries. To my foreign hosts I paid this tribute to our country's national game:

"The game of the American republic is a game that is different in its magnetism from any other sport of any other nation ancient or modern. It is not a game of the classes, but its democracy makes it a game of the masses. It is the only game that levels all minds to one plane during its playing action, whether it is the highly judicial or literary man, he will find his peer in the most humble citizen of his countrymen in his knowledge of the strategic features of the game. Base ball is the creation of American temperament and genius. It is coexistent with the growth of the youth of our country. Its playing machinery has all the initiative and get-away dash of the typical American, which is demonstrated in the many commercial and industrial enterprises of the country. It has been of material help to certain classes of the American youth. It has enabled the farmer's son to lift an old mortgage of his father's farm. It has placed the struggling student in a position to pay his way through college and it has taken the humble boy from the city lots and placed him in a position to gain a little knowledge and culture of the outside world, besides helping his parents to educate his sister or brother. Now, as to the future of America's national game, I will say this: As long as it remains under the auspices of a clean, broad-minded American sportsman, it will last as long as our language, and will be as durable and inextinguishable from the hearts of the American people as the stars and stripes of our country's flag." TED SULLIVAN.

NEW YORK, August 3.—Greek maidens—nearly 200 of them—bearing gifts and dressed in the gaudy "Sunday best" of the Athenian sister of the flapper, "picture brides," whose wedding had all been done by mail, have arrived. They had the first glimpses of the men they are to marry as the crowd of eager bridegrooms circled the ship in motor boats. Few of the brides knew which was John from Kansas or George from Maine. Many of the "picture brides" brought gifts for their unseen matrimonial partners. One brought a saddle for a husband who chanced to be a Kansas farmer. Unfortunately he will not require it in his jaunts, as he rides in an automobile.

No difficulty is expected in permitting the entrance of the members of the hymeneal argosy, as quotas from Greece allowed by the immigration restriction act are as yet unfilled.
